What is VIDT Datalink (VIDT)?

To protect data and assets from being stolen or lost due to on-chain attacks, VIDT Datalink was developed as a multi-purpose blockchain verification and NFT creation protocol. It is widely used by both publishers and integrators because it provides a robust, yet easy-to-implement framework for securing NFTs, firmware, business certificates, and data with minimal outlay of resources.

Companies including AmSpec, Rolex, Kucoin, Procentec, NFT Claim, and IBM have already begun using it to validate and secure their digital papers, diplomas, invoices, and sensor data against online forgery. Using the API, the hybrid blockchain verifies the authenticity of encrypted digital assets and documents. This makes it easier to incorporate widely used programming analysis languages like JavaScript, Python, and PHP into the VIDT platform and so take a more secure approach to encrypting data.
