What Is Badger DAO (BADGER)?

The Badger DAO is a nonprofit, decentralised collective working to make bitcoin trading more open and accessible. In 2020, Canadian cryptocurrency entrepreneur Chris Spadafora launched this company to bridge the gap between Bitcoin and Ethereum.

This is ostensibly achieved by letting users save their Bitcoin and other cryptocurrencies in secure vaults called Setts. The Setts are designed to lower transaction fees for cryptocurrency users while also allowing them to produce yield.

Unlike other DAOs, Badger has two coins of its own. The white paper mentions DIGG as one of them. The BADGER token is the other token used by the Badger DAO; it serves as a governance token and grants holders voting rights on proposed changes to the network. You can buy, sell, and trade this on digital currency markets.

It can also be used as a stake in a reward system. BADGER is officially a token and not a coin due to its reliance on the Ethereum blockchain.
