What is PancakeSwap?

The decentralized finance (DeFi) ecosystem is one of the highly driven sectors in the cryptocurrency space that has drawn the global attention, mainly because of the high rate of development and low barrier of entry within the chain.

With the rapid advancement in the crypto space, more DeFi projects are integrated to keep up with the market demand and growth. One of them is PancakeSwap.

PancakeSwap is a non-custodial Binance Smart Chain (BSC) platform for crypto exchange and profitable farming using BEP-20 tokens. The project has its CAKE token and is analogous to Uniswap and SushiSwap. However, unlike these Ethereum-based exchanges, PancakeSwap has faster transactions and lower fees than Ethereum.

The PancakeSwap network was launched on September 20, 2020, by unknown developers with the support of Binance. In February 2021, PancakeSwap became one of the largest exchanges in the DeFi segment in terms of trading volume. The platform is regarded as one of the best performing decentralized exchanges (DEX) and also the most convenient for on-chain bridging and yields.

The PancakeSwap exchange, to some extent, solves the problem of cryptocurrency liquidity in the DeFi segment. Most projects in the DeFi segment do not offer comprehensive services, while PancakeSwap supports all possible segment solutions. Positioned as a DEX, PancakeSwap's crypto markets are created by the network's participants. These markets provide decentralized liquidity through profitable farming and commission payments to depositors.

The PancakeSwap digital system uses a decentralized management method through the CAKE token holders. Proposals for tokenomics or changes in the protocol's operation are made collectively through a public vote. This approach creates a healthy decentralized environment where every CAKE holder is a community member.

PancakeSwap Price History

CAKE price history from launch to present - Credit: CoinMarketCap

First let's take a quick look at the PancakeSwap price history. While past performance should never be taken as an indicator of future results, knowing what the crypto has done in the past can give us some much-needed context when it comes to either making or interpreting a CAKE coin price prediction.

CAKE went live on 29 September 2020 at $1.37 and next year the token experienced its biggest rally to date with the bull market in 2021. The cryptocurrency rocketed to its all-time high of $44.18 on 30 April 2021. After that, however, the price kept fluctuating and fell slowly, closing the year at $11.77.

It continued this downward trend into the new year, following the wider bear market at the time. It stooped below the $10 mark in January and under $5 in May as the crypto market crashed in the wake of the depegging of the Terra UST stablecoin and the collapse of the associated LUNA crypto. Things got even worse the following months, when more crypto bankruptcy news confirmed the bear market and CAKE fell to $2.51 on 18 June. Then in November, the collapse of the FTX (FTT) exchange caused yet another crypto crash, with CAKE closing the year at $3.18, down more than 70% over the course of the year.
