Dogecoin saw unprecedented growth during the last bull market, so many investors are wondering if the Dogecoin price will explode and eventually reach $1. This guide will offer you the latest Dogecoin price prediction for 2023, 2025 and 2030 that was being made as of 27 March 2023, and its projected growth from fundamental analysis to price history.

Dogecoin Price Prediction - Overview

End of 2023 - As the broader crypto sector looks set for a bull market, Dogecoin will invalidate its bear trend by breaking the lower highs. This will put DOGE around $0.182 by the end of 2023.

End of 2025 - The end of 2025 could be the beginning of the next bear market, causing DOGE to consolidate around the $0.20 mark.

End of 2030 - Dogecoin could rise and take new ATHs of $1.30 thanks to its network effect and strong community.

DOGE Price History

Dogecoin was created as a joke based on the Shiba Inu memes of 2013, but the meme coin failed to gain notable traction until 2018. And its 2018 price was insignificant compared to its 2021 all-time high (ATH).

The Dogecoin price remained relatively flat until 2018, with its founders not taking the project seriously and later telling crypto inventors not to buy DOGE.

In early 2017, the Dogecoin price held around the $0.0002115 price point before rocketing to $0.01467 in January 2018. This price increase was said to be a combination of the peak of the 2017-2018 bull market and the strong Dogecoin community.

That said, Dogecoin then followed suit with the rest of the market for the remainder of 2018, experiencing a slow and painful decline.

DOGE finally leveled out around the $0.002 - $0.003 price range, where it remained until following the Bitcoin halving in May 2021. Then, between November 2020 and January 2021, prices began to rise as Dogecoin was touted as the cryptocurrency equivalent of Gamestop.

Around this time, Elon Musk began playing a more critical role in the direction of the cryptocurrency, posting a joke image of a magazine with the word "Dogue" instead of Vogue.

As a result, the Dogecoin market climbed over 800% in one 24-hour period and went from $0.002523 in November 2020 to $0.07011 in February 2021.

Following the February 2021 high, the coin increased over another 1000% to its all-time high of $0.7376 in May 2021.

Since then, the price has steadily declined, having only picked up recently. But the question is, will Dogecoin explode again, or is it destined for $0?

Here is a summary of Dogecoin's price history so far:

- It was initially created as a joke coin in 2013 with a modest price.
- It first gained attention in 2018 following a considerable price surge.
- Comparisons to Gamestop drove its price to a frenzy in 2021.
- It finally reached its all-time high in May 2021.
- Price has gradually declined since its May 2021 all-time high.

Dogecoin (DOGE) Price Prediction 2023

Based on the Dogecoin price today, the rest of this year could see a steady increase in price for Dogecoin. This comes on the back of multiple market-related events affecting the crypto industry, such as the anticipation of the Bitcoin halving and an increasing reliance on crypto as the traditional banking system faces massive struggles.

When discussing the recent financial crisis of Credit Suisse and Silicon Vallet Bank, Expert Bitcoin analyst, Balaji, recently stated that Bitcoin will be the world's new reserve currency.

With this in mind, the crypto space could be in for a massive bull run, and as DOGE fills a similar need to banking (an inflationary payment system), much of the new liquidity invested into crypto could find its way to DOGE.

If banks continue to struggle and more people turn to crypto as they have been in recent weeks, the Dogecoin stock price could rise imminently. If this thesis is accurate and crypto experiences a strong bull run, the DOGE price would invalidate its previous lower high on the daily time frame.

A target of around $0.182 for DOGE would confirm the trend reversal into a bull market, working in line with the broader macroeconomic factors at play and the Bitcoin halving that will occur in 2024.

While a downtrend continuation is unlikely for DOGE due to its 89.98% decrease from its all-time high, the Dogecoin price may surge later in the year based on its perceived risk vs Bitcoin and other asset classes.

If this is the case, the DOGE price will instead look to invalidate lower highs in the 4H time frame, hitting $0.10 before moving to $0.112.

Overall, the DOGE price in 2023 could reach between $0.10 and $0.182, setting the coin up for an explosive 2024.

Dogecoin Price Prediction 2025 - 2030

Between 2025 and 2030, the crypto market will see cyclical movements. This means that Dogecoin will eventually fall in price but should maintain a higher low than the current bear market low.

There are countless ways to predict how long a bull market will last, but Rekt Capital found they last an average of 518 days. Therefore, if we are set to enter the early accumulation stages of a bull market rally in mid-2023, that would make Q1 2025 the beginning of the next bear market.

With this in mind, we could expect strong support around $0.2, where the price would remain until around Q2 2026 when the next bull market would begin.

Concluding our Dogecoin forecast, 2030 could finally see Dogecoin rise above $1. Many pundits believe Bitcoin could be at $100K or higher at this stage, so it would be no surprise if the Dogecoin price smashes its ATH too.

Predicting price this far into the future is highly speculative, particularly in a market as volatile as crypto. However, DOGE has some key advantages to help increase its price, potentially to $1.30 in 2030.

What Affects the Dogecoin Price?

Dogecoin was one of the best-performing crypto assets over the previous bull market. It is essential to understand the factors that affected its price to predict its future value.

Dogecoin influencer - Elon Musk

The most well-known current Dogecoin price influence is Elon Musk. A single tweet from Musk can attract billions in new liquidity to the coin.

With his acquisition of Twitter, the most well-known communication hub for the crypto community, his influence could span even further, thus boosting the DOGE price even more.

There is massive speculation that Twitter could begin accepting payments in DOGE, considering Tesla already does.

The issue surrounding Musk and Dogecoin is that the community may be too reliant on the Twitter owner now. For example, he is regarded as the “Doge father”, and most often, when Dogecoin hits the headlines, Musk’s name is somewhere to be seen.

With this in mind, Dogecoin has a degree of centralisation due to how easy it is for one man to influence its price. If he were to abandon the crypto, the strength of the community could deteriorate along with Dogecoin’s price.

Broader Crypto Market

While Dogecoin is an outlier in its substantially volatile swings, the bear market has proven it still follows suit with the rest of the market. Dogecoin mainly follows the Bitcoin price, which follows the broader global macroeconomic factors such as inflation, employment levels, the strength of economies and the U.S. Dollar Index.

Therefore, it is essential to consider the broader market conditions when considering the Dogecoin price in the months and years ahead.

Community

So far, one of Dogecoin’s main strengths has been its community, from when DOGE holders sponsored Olympic teams in 2014 to the Dogecoin community on Reddit calling for the coin to become the next Gamestop. One of the fundamental strengths of the Dogecoin community is their ability to work together to reach a goal.

Going forward, it will be imperative that the community continue striving for bigger goals for the price to grow. The project will need more extensive use cases and even more adoption to break all-time highs.

Ability to Attract New High Profile Advocates

While some cryptos are built on utility or their ability to solve real-world issues, Dogecoin's community-driven focus means high-profile figures like Elon Musk and Snoop Dogg influence the price considerably.

Looking ahead, the DOGE price could rise much higher if the crypto attracts more celebrities and other well-regarded figures in the crypto community.

DOGE Supply

Unlike Bitcoin and many other cryptos, Dogecoin does not have a supply cap. This makes the coin inflationary; although that can be useful sometimes, the price will grow less over time compared to a capped supply.

Ultimately, the future price of Dogecoin is limited by its inflationary nature. The coin could still serve a huge purpose in the crypto industry and has the potential to climb in price slowly, but capped supply tokens can grow much more sustainably in the long term.

Conclusion

Based on our Dogcoin price forecast for 2023-2030, the next bull market looks to be coming soon, meaning that the dogcoin's price could climb, invalidating its lower highs and confirming a trend reversal. In the medium term, we expect the coin to recapture its all-time highs, although it is unlikely to climb much higher due to a lack of utility and an already massive price.
