What is Optimism Crypto?

Optimism is one of many layer-2 scaling solutions out there: Platforms that are designed to make it quicker and cheaper to work on the blockchain by, in effect, creating an extra layer to the chain where transactions can be processed. It was first proposed in 2019, by its founders Jinglan Wang, Ben Jones, Karl Floersch and Kevin Ho, with its mainnet opening in 2021.

As its whitepaper states:

“Optimism is built according to a strong design philosophy that stands on four main pillars: Simplicity, pragmatism, sustainability and, of course, optimism. It’s important to understand these pillars as they heavily influence the design of Optimism as a whole.”

It was built by Ethereum (ETH) developers and is intended to be a minimal extension to Ethereum apps. In addition, the platform helps make Ethereum transactions faster and cheaper.

In short, the idea behind Optimism is that it should be upbeat, last for a long time, be easy to work with, and do what it needs to do in a practical manner.

Optimism’s native token is also called optimism (OP) and it helps fund third-party development proposals and integrations on the Optimism platform, via the Optimism Collective decentralised autonomous organisation (DAO). People who hold OP can also take part in votes on the future of the network.

It is worth noting that, while you may see references to things like an “optimism coin price prediction”, such terms are not strictly accurate because OP is based on Ethereum, which makes it a token rather than a coin.

While the concept has been around since 2019, it was only on 31 May 2022 that the first optimism airdrop took place, taking the OP turning its concept into something that existed in the real world, or at least the real crypto world.

Latest Optimism News

- One of OP Stack Mod is being developed by Celestia Labs, which aims to modularize the data availability layer of the stack, providing flexibility in hosting chain data on different platforms while leveraging Ethereum for consensus and ordering.
- Optimism introduces “Foundation Missions,” a request for proposals (RFP) process to build core infrastructure for the Optimism Collective.
- Season 4 of Optimism Governance focuses on projects related to governance accessibility, technical decentralization, protocol research, and application development.
