Recent News of Ripple

Ripple, the company behind the XRP Ledger (XRPL), is generating avenues for XRP holders to earn directly on the blockchain. A recent proposal from RippleX developers Aanchal Malhotra and Vytutas Vito Tumas introduces a native lending protocol designated as XLS - 66d.

The proposed protocol introduces a direct lending and borrowing mechanism that prioritizes flexibility and reusability. Notably, the protocol enables participants to contribute fungible tokens such as XRP, wBTC, and wETH to a lending pool to earn interest.

This development follows a series of advancements within Ripple's ecosystem. Last month, Ripple introduced Automated Market Maker (AMM) pools, albeit facing launch challenges. Additionally, Ripple disclosed plans to launch a stablecoin fully backed by US dollar deposits and other cash equivalents.

Recent Price Movement of XRP

XRP, a cryptocurrency that has been developed, issued, and partially managed by US-based company Ripple Labs, serves as native currency of the Ripple network.

In March 11, 2024, XRP price reached a year-to-date peak of $0.7440. Since then, XRP has seen decline in its price. The altcoin has failed to make a comeback to the local top, despite numerous attempts. XRP fluctuated between the February 17 low of $0.5643 and March 18 high of $0.6686 for nearly a month and half.

As of April 16, 2024, XRP is traded at a price of $0.49851175 with a market cap of $27.292 billion.

What is the Impact of Recent News on XRP?

The proposed protocol expands the XRPL's decentralized finance (DeFi) offerings by allowing peer-to-peer lending and borrowing of cryptocurrencies, removing the need for centralized intermediaries. The system will offer fixed-term loans using pooled funds, with interest rates determined in advance.

The protocol enables users to deposit XRP or other supported tokens into designated lending pools to earn interest. Borrowers can then negotiate loan terms directly with a pool delegate who oversees the pool's operations. The design supports lending pools where a single borrower can access funds from multiple lenders.

Ripple CTO, David Schwartz, reacting to the proposal expressed positive sentiments about the proposed lending protocol. David Schwartz noted: "Very excited to see the XRP Ledger Native Lending Protocol proposal up for review and feedback - if passed, this could bring new utility to the XRPL. Together with the native DEX, this lending protocol forms a critical pillar in enabling more accessible, efficient, and transparent financial services."

Is XRP a Good Investment in 2024?

There is no doubt that cryptocurrency market is soaring. The bullish sentiment has pushed Bitcoin to near all-time highs. However, not all cryptocurrencies are benefiting as much. Ripple fluctuated between the February 17 low of $0.5643 and March 18 high of $0.6686 for nearly a month and half. But with a market cap of $32.542 billion, XRP remains on the radar of digital asset investors hoping for things to turn around.

Given a favorable environment, combined with more efforts launched by Ripple, we believe XRP, one of the leading cryptocurrencies, remains a good option for investors looking for huge return. As for price prediction for XRP, Ripple's target price for the end of 2024 is expected to be around USD 0.67. According to the experts, XRP will increase above 1 USD.
