What is VAIOT ?

In registering its whitepaper with the Maltese authorities under the jurisdiction's new legislative framework for regulating digital assets, VAIOT, an innovative blockchain and AI-based intelligent contracts platform, has set a precedent. Because the project's documentation has been successfully registered with the Malta Financial Services Authority (MFSA), the planned issuance of VAI tokens will be governed under the Maltese Virtual Financial Assets Act (VFSA), giving investors much-needed protection and peace of mind.

VAIOT combines the features of a blockchain programmer and personal assistant with its integrated blockchain, artificial intelligence, and natural user interface, which is based on the open-source Cosmos SDK framework. The platform is meant to be a digital legal assistant and a channel for the distribution of digital services supported by AI, serving the needs of enterprises and consumers equally and remaining available around the clock. To start, VAIOT will direct its offerings toward the insurance sector, where they will assist with the automation of sales and service channels.

The VAI token, used on the VAIOT platform, is the platform's fuel. The token has dual roles as a utility and a payment mechanism.
