Is Kiba Inu Coin a Great Investment for Long Term?

Before buying any digital asset, it is important to make sure that the user sees some potential for a long-term investment. Therefore, the following section will provide users with key findings about Kiba Inu and future projects to see if it can be a good investment.

Supports for Multi-Chain Operation

Kibaswap is a multi-chain operable DEX - supporting investors on the Ethereum network and the Binance Smart Chain. This can be achieved through the Kiba bridge - which acts as a bridge between the two blockchains. Using Kibaswap, users can connect their crypto-wallets to DEX and exchange their assets with Kiba Inu and other cryptocurrencies.

Moreover, the ecosystem offers Flooz Trade, which allows users to connect wallets and buy tokens directly with fiat currency.

Promotes Long-Term Token Holding

Due to the high volatility experienced by multiple meme tokens as a result of ongoing buying and selling pressure, Kiba Inu has developed a protocol to promote long-term token holding. After purchasing Kiba Inu, a sales tax of 26% will be charged for the first 24 hours.

After that, the tax rate drops to 10%. This will stop regular buying and selling and may eventually create uncertainty in the price of Kiba Inu.

Uses Web3 Protocols

In addition to the DEX that Kiba Inu runs on, the developers have a long-term plan by leveraging several Web 3.0 protocols. First, Kiba Inu will be used as a native token for the project's upcoming NFT marketplace.

In addition, the Kiba ecosystem is developing a GameFi platform that will allow users to participate in multiple games using Kiba and other playable characters. If these platforms increase user adoption, it could reflect future increases in Kiba dog prices.

One-Cent Cryptocurrency to Promote Diversity

While bitcoin and ethereum are some of the largest digital assets, users may want to invest in new and affordable tokens for substantial gains. Kiba Inu is a great diversification opportunity because it is a penny token - trading at less than 1 cent.

While new projects may attract higher risk, they may lead to higher profits in the future.

Strong Social Media Marketing Brand And Community

In the past, we have seen a connection between social media marketing and cryptocurrency success. For example, Dogcoin gained upward momentum more than once thanks to mentions from Tesla CEO Elon Musk, but then the weight of his tweets dropped.

Kiba developers are looking to grow a strong social media brand and community over the long term. The project has a giveaway program for certain milestones. Kiba Inu will give 5 free ETH after the project reaches a 50m market cap. Rewards go to 100 ETH.

Over time, Kiba has been increasing its Twitter and Telegram followers. Currently, Kiba Inu has over 20,000 Twitter followers and over 400 members on its Telegram channel. According to LunarCrush, Kiba Inu is the second most popular meme coin on the BNB chain in terms of social engagement, with Baby Doge Coin ranking first.
